Processing...

Your upload is completed! Your film is being processed now. You can close this window and comeback later or you can wait until it is done. After the film is processed you will have to choose the right audio and subtitle tracks. If you close this window, you can find the next step in your dashboard under "My films" whenever you're ready.

STEP 8

After processing is complete, you will be prompted to confirm the audio tracks and subtitles.

Assign the correct language to each track, or upload additional audio or subtitle files if needed.

The screenshot shows a six-step progress bar at the top: 1. Find film, 2. Movie Detail, 3. Upload film, 4. Audio and subtitle tracks (current step), 5. Summary, and 6. Finish. The main heading is "Identify the audio and subtitle tracks". Below it is a paragraph of instructions: "The processed film file contained the following audio and subtitle tracks. It is necessary to correctly assign the corresponding language. If you need to add subtitles, you can do it in this step. You can then choose which audio and subtitle tracks will be available for public screenings. Don't worry, all of these can be edited later in the film profile." The interface is divided into two sections: "Audio tracks" and "Subtitle Tracks". In the "Audio tracks" section, there is a track with a volume slider (0:00 / 0:14), a language dropdown menu set to "English", and a "No dialogue" checkbox. A yellow arrow points to the track's checkbox. Below it is a green plus icon and the text "Add another audio track.", with another yellow arrow pointing to it. The "Subtitle Tracks" section has a checkbox for "Does this film have burned-in subtitles?". Below it is a green plus icon and the text "Add another subtitles.", with a yellow arrow pointing to it.
